(George) We were chil - dren (Lou Ellen) How I wish I'd once long a - go, dear, you and I. _____ At the start, our known, dear, that one day you'd ar - rive, _____ Just to feel I lives lay a - part as lives will lie. _____ Up I grew and had an i - deal for which to strive. _____ Had I known I'd

I nev - er knew That the world con - tained a darl - ing like you, Nor did meet you, my own, I would not have lived for pleas - ure a - lone; I was you dream you would see lit - tle me, too, bye and bye. _____ friv - o - lous and gay, sad to say, when I was five. _____

You Never Knew About Me

I nev - er knew a - bout you, dear, And_ you nev - er knew a - bout
I nev - er knew a - bout you, dear, And_ you nev - er knew a - bout me. Life might have been Heav - en, If I, then aged sev - en, Had but me. I nev - er missed chanc - es Of ju - ve - nile danc - es, For_ met you when you were three. We'd have made mud pies like af - my life was one mad spree. I was oft - en kissed 'neath the fin - i - ties. We'd have known what rap - ture may be. I'd have mis - tle - toe By small boys ex - ci - ted with tea. If I'd let you feed my rab - bit 'Till the thing be - came a hab - it, Dear! But known that you ex - ist - ed, I'd have scratch'd them and re - sist - ed, Dear! But I nev - er knew a - bout you. (Ah! what might_ have been.) And I nev - er knew a - bout you. (Oh! the pain_ of it.) And you nev - er - knew a - bout me. D.S. me.

you nev - er knew a - bout me.
